Phi Beta Kappa Elects Six; Freeman Talks At Initiation

Six seniors, one man and five women, were initiated into Phi Beta Kappa at a chapel ceremony last week. Patrick McKegney, Paula Boesch, Anne Davis, Marlowe Farnum, Barbara Slate, and Catherine Weeks were welcomed into the nation's oldest honor society, after maintaining an 89 average or above for six college semesters, by Vice President Stephen Freeman and Professor Emeritus Raymond White.

McKegney was unable to appear, since he was called before his draft board on the day he was to receive his Phi Beta Kappa key in person. He was awarded his key on his return. He is a bio-chem major, with Yale Medical School his next place of study. He is a member of the Middlebury men's honor society, the Blue Key, and is also a member of the Mountain Club's governing board, Skyline. President of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, McKegney was on the track team during his freshman year.

Miss Boesch is a chemistry and French major and is also house president of the Chateau. She is a member of the Al-chemists, French, and Dance clubs.

Debate Team Places Third

The debate team traveled to Burlington the weekend of November 21 where they participated in the UVM Tournament, largest debating encounter of the Fall semester in New England. It won eight of its ten debates to place third in a field of 49 Eastern colleges and universities.

Winner of the tournament, with a record of ten wins out of ten debates, was Brooklyn College of New York. Dartmouth placed second by winning nine of its ten matches, and Middlebury came third, tied with Harvard ,Navy, and Smith.

In their ten matches, the Middlebury debaters defeated teams from Harvard, Army, Penn State, Wesleyan, NYU, and Georgetown University. The question under discussion was: "Resolved; that the United States should adopt a policy of free trade." Ernest Lorch '54 and Norman Ingham '57 took the negative side for Middlebury, while Evan Andersen '54 and Alan Entine '56 spoke for the affirmative. Last year in the same tournament, Middlebury also tied for third, capturing seven out of ten matches.

The debaters have also just completed a round-robin series of 16 debates with UVM, Dartmouth, and St. Michaels. Middlebury won nine of the 16 matches, a substantial majority. The next encounter for the Midd team will be a tournament at Tufts College on December 4 and 5, with the same free trade topic up for discussion.

A mazurka and a waltz from Katchaturian's "Masquerade Suite," are also featured on the program. Another act consists of dances centered around six Christmas Carols which will be sung by John Baker '55 and Carolyn Apfel '54.

Religious Activity

Religious activity at Middlebury will reach a new high this evening when undergraduates attend the opening address of the Religious Emphasis Program. The meetings scheduled for this weekend represent a constructive step taken by students themselves to fill their own religious needs in what promises to become an annual tradition. The event can partially be considered a climax to the growing interest in religious affairs evidenced during the past four years.

The Newman Club and the Christian Association have been the main areas of activity until now. Both groups are presently enjoying an increased membership and a fuller schedule. The Tuesday evening vesper services conducted by undergraduates have been met with an encouraging response, particularly this fall. It is even no longer strange to see students attending Sunday Chapel service when they do not have to go. The whole religious program of the college has emerged into a more vital and rewarding atmosphere.

Partly responsible for this new feeling are the relaxed Chapel rules now in effect. As compulsion has become less of an issue in religion at Middlebury, student enthusiasm has become more evident. Allowed to grow naturally, this interest has taken positive forms. Antagonism has been partially erased by the opportunity for self-expression in religious matters. Although changes have been most noticeable in organized groups, individuals seem to have benefited too by the more positive approach toward religious matters.

Earlier in the year, we stated in the CAMPUS that there was no longer any need for active agitation against the present Chapel program because we felt it would die naturally. The Religious Emphasis Program and the other religious activities we have mentioned are the reasons that the compulsory rules should be short-lived; as long as students show that they are capable of conducting their own religious activities which adequately fulfill their needs, compulsory Chapel becomes unnecessary.

Twitchell Display Of Eastern Antiquities Makes Permanent Residence In Library

By Sally Evans

Starr Library has recently become the home of a fascinating display of rare and valuable eastern antiquities, known as the Twitchell Collection. Stridgels (used by Roman bathers to remove perspiration), tear-glasses (in which mourners' tears were collected and buried with the dead), schnabelkannes (a rather imposing name for a jug with a long-necked mouth), scimiters, daggers, pistols, flower-holders, pottery shuttles for making wool into yarn, and an ominous-looking hairpin nearly six inches long are among the strange objects currently attracting attention in the glass case to the left of the front door.

The exhibit, acquired from the Island of Cyprus, was presented to the college by Karl S. Twitchell, a native Vermonter and for many years a mining engineer in the Middle East.

Roman Bronze

Pieces in the collection date from 1500 BC, in the Late Bronze Age, through 1000 AD. Probably the oldest specimens are the Roman Bronze pieces, including the hairpin, scimiters and daggers. Greek and Roman amphoras (jugs with pointed bases) and craters (large bowls) represent the transitional period about 1000-750 BC when wheel-turned pottery first appeared. Bits of Roman concrete from water cisterns and drainage systems date from 100 BC to 200 AD.

Outstanding in the display are the green-hued vases and tear-bottles of rare and delicate Greek glass of the Late Hellenistic Age.

The newest relics unearthed are bits of Byzantine floor tile, probably 1000 years old.

The collection also includes a number of unidentified ancient coins, and a United States five-cent piece, dated 1890.

Saudi Arabia

Twitchell, the collector of these relics of ancient civilization, has lived in Cyprus, Palestine, Egypt, Portugal, Ethiopa, and Saudi Arabia. He has published a book on Saudi Arabia where he first went in the late '30's. There he was affiliated with the discovery and development of gold and oil deposits, and was well acquainted with the King. Twitchell has now returned to this country and lives in Greenwich, Connecticut. He received an honorary degree from Middlebury several years ago.

The Twitchell Collection resided for many years in the Los Angeles County Museum, California, until Twitchell felt he would like a permanent home for it. In mid-August, 1952, it left Los Angeles (insured for $5000 -- our only indication of its value) for its new residence in Middlebury. Louise Robinson, assistant librarian, arranged the display on shelves in the former ballad room in the library basement where it remained until this fall when the permanent glass display case arrived.

To aid the casual observer in understanding the sometimes obscure significance of the pieces, there are helpful labels explaining age and use.

Young Republicans Cause Vermont-Wide Controversy

Vermont Young Republicans are much too inactive and rectification of the problem should begin immediately was the theme of the address given by Norman Kittel '54 at the recent Vermont Young Republican Club dinner held in Middlebury.

The speech was recorded in recent editions of both the "Rutland Herald" and the "Burlington Free Press."

In the seven page statement, Kittel brought forth such convincing proof of his charges as: there have been no meetings of the Vermont Young Republican Club since the summer of 1952, which runs contrary to the constitution; and no reports or communications from the state club for an equal length of time.

According to the New England Council Treasurer, Vermont has paid no dues to the above council since 1949. The Middlebury College Club was practically the only club to participate in any of the regional meetings, and at the National Convention at South Dakota last spring, Vermont and New Hampshire were the only two states not to send delegates. Also, since that time, New Hampshire has revamped her Club, but Vermont has not.

Thereupon Kittel called for an active program to stimulate present organizations and to attract a greater number of participators. The Middlebury Club called for bimonthly meetings on different Vermont campuses; a state committee given the purpose of promoting college activity; a state committee given the purpose of research on state issues and worthy legislation; and general promotion of state participation in Regional and National meetings.

In conclusion the Middlebury Club's plans were mentioned with reference to the outing to be held in Stockbridge in May, which could be used as a get-to-gether for southern colleges of the state. With Middlebury's path mentioned, Kittel ended with the demand of immediate action or no action.

Plans were also mentioned for another meeting of Young Republicans to be held in Montpelier, Jan. 8, 1954 so that concrete measures of reorganization might be taken and permanent officers elected. Tentative officers mentioned included Susan Minot '57, Mary E. Wells '53 (of Manchester), Richard Viets, a UVM student, and Kittel. Attorney John Harrington of Burlington was considered as a possible candidate for president of the Young Republican Club of Vermont.

Phi Beta Kappa

After the initiation of the new members, Vice President Freeman gave an address on the duty of leadership. Citing verses 13 and 14 from the fifth book of Matthew, he proclaimed the college student as the "salt of the earth."

The ceremony was held on the 177th anniversary of Phi Beta Kappa as a national honor society. Middlebury became a recognized member in 1868. Another election will be held this June for those students who have maintained an 87 or over for eight semesters work.

should be as near this size as possible. If in doubt whether a poster has been done before or would be suitable, entrants may contact Beers at Gifford 105 or Miss Starr at the Chateau.

There will be six judges for the contest, including the publicity co-chairmen, Evan Andersen '54 and Marguerite Brown '54, Carnival co-chairmen, and two others to be chosen. According to the publicity committee, it is important that the poster be well done, as it is the main contact the school has with other institutions.

Carnival Play

valid, monopolizes the Stanley's living room and library. Exconvicts are invited to meals, and transatlantic phone calls total $784. Such strange gifts as penguins, an octopus, and 10,000 cockroaches arrive from Whiteside's friends.

There is romance in "The Man" and Whiteside interfers. He summons a glamourous actress Lorraine to win reporter Bert Jefferson from his secretary Maggie. Following much trickery and double dealing, Lorraine suggests a three week rewrite of Bert's play at Lake Placid, with herself as collaborator.

But now Whiteside wants to get rid of Lorraine and a convenient mummy case arrives. Lorraine encased leaves on a world tour. Satire and pratall is climaxed in true Carnival tradition.

Tryouts for the 15 male and nine female parts were held this afternoon and will be continued Friday from three o'clock on in the Playhouse. The play will be presented the Thursday night of Carnival.

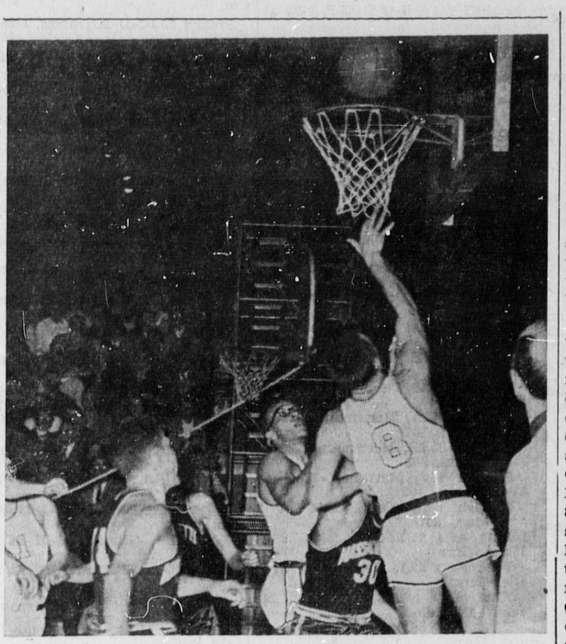
Quintet Opens Season; Green Next



During the following three periods the Hoopsters maintained their early advantage until they liberally substituted the lettermen with members of the freshman squad. These same freshmen had won an impressive victory in the opener against Lyndon Teachers' College 67-60 in which Freshmen Evans and Woodbury led in the scoring with 20 and 19 points respectively.

Coach Lupien said, "they played a great hustling ball game; Dennis was terrific; the defense was great; well it's great, like money in the bank."

On Saturday the Lupien Men travel to Hanover, New Hampshire to play the Big Green of Dartmouth. This will be their first road encounter of the season. Last year on the home floor the Midd Men came out on the short end of a long score. This season the men in Green should be even tougher. Playing center will be their 6 ft. 8 inch giant Wisdom who tips the scales at 270 lbs. Last year's club, lightly hit by graduation, was the team which inflicted one of the few losses on the Crusaders of Holy Cross. This year with Wisdom's added height, the Dartmouth Club should be even harder to beat. Only an outstanding shooting percentage holds any hope for the team from Middlebury yet you can never sell this club short as last season's Springfield game proved. Always game and always hustling Dartmouth can be certain that they will have a tough fight. The bigger they are the harder they fall--we hope.

Clarkson Game

By Ernie Lorch

The Middlebury varsity basketball squad opened the 1953-54 season on a highly successful note defeating Clarkson by a score of 55-47. Alfred "Sonny" Dennis led both teams with a fine scoring display which netted the Middlebury star 24 points.

During the first five minutes of play, led by Dennis, the Panthers burst into a 18-9 lead which they never relinquished. As the period ended the Lupien men were on the better side of a 21-14 score.

Football Lettermen Elect Limbach Captain For 1954

By Art Goldberg

A few weeks ago the lettermen of the 1953 football team met to choose a captain for next year. The man they elected was right end George Limbach. The accomplishments athletically and otherwise of the Hudson, Ohio, junior are, by this time, pretty well known. These include membership in Blue Key, secretary of the junior class, treasurer of Sigma Phi Epsilon, and running on the Track team, in addition to performing on the gridiron.

Last year, big number 61 was a familiar sight in the Middlebury backfield, backing up the line on defense and leading the interference from his blocking-back slot on the offense. This fall with the return of one platoon ball, George made a big switch, moving up to the line and playing right end. The change didn't seem to affect his playing at all, as he played outstanding football offensively and defensively. The captain-elect himself prefers the end position to his old backfield post, and although he says two platoon football is easier, the present way is more enjoyable.

Asked about this year's team, George replied that he thought it was a much better team than most people believed and better than the players themselves believed as indicated by the Williams and UVM games. The main fault, in his opinion was lack of confidence.

As for next year, he thinks that at this point prospects look very good, as they often do in November. There are a large group of returning lettermen, many of whom have been playing together for three years, plus several freshmen who did well this past season.

The big moment for him in 1953? "Well I suppose it's that interception," he said, referring to his now famous 82 yard runback of an intercepted pass in the Trinity game.

That's George Limbach, football captain for 1954, and a good choice to follow in the footsteps of Irv Morris and Cary Smith.

Soccer Gains Recognition As Official School Sport

By Oliver Morton

Middlebury's soccer team, coached by John Handy, was recently voted a budget of $300 for the coming season. The squad will also have its own field to play on and several home games, both of which should go far in fostering this sport at the college.

Whereas this year's squad was compelled to shoulder all expenses themselves, the subsidy will cover most of the traveling and equipment costs for the coming season. With their own field on which to practice and play their home games, the team should profit tremendously. It will certainly be an improvement over present playing ground which serves as a parking lot for cars during the football season and is consequently full of holes and ruts.

The addition of home games to the schedule is probably the most important asset to soccer at Middlebury. Panther rooters will have a chance to see their team in action and enthusiasm for the sport should build quickly. With the support of the local fans behind them, the players will naturally have more incentive and drive to win. Better facilities will attract a larger turnout for practice and Middlebury fans can look for better and better squads in the future as the sport grows.

In its first year, the team, with surprisingly good material, had a good season. Led by Captain Frank Punderson, Gene Kern, freshman Alex Carley, and goalie Al Sinclair, to mention just a few, the Panther booters finished with a very commendable 2-2 record. In their opening tilt, the Handymen trounced a favored Williams Freshmen squad, 2-0, on the strength of goals by Kern and Carley. Their next encounter saw the Panthers run into a more experienced Union College varsity club which, aided by two goals on penalty shots, coasted to a 4-0 win. On markers by Carley, Hugh Thomas, and Jack Harrington Middlebury upset a University of Massachusetts squad, composed of junior varsity and varsity players, 3-10, at Amherst, Mass. The booters climaxed their season by journeying to Hanover to meet an undefeated Dartmouth freshmen team which was averaging seven goals a game. The result was a 5-0 win for the Indians, but Midd gave the Green one of their toughest battles of the year.

StreeterLeadsSkiersThroughTraining

By Walt Mears

The slopes at Middlebury's Snow Bowl are still snowless, and it will probably be some time before the rope tows resume their annual towing activities, but the group of men who will represent the college in intercollegiate ski competition this winter are already hard at work. Coach Bobo Sheehan must fill the gaps left in his outfit by the graduation of such outstanding competitors as Vern Goodwin, Dick Ireland, and Gale Shaw, and from any point of view this represents a major task.

Leading this year's returnees are Captain Les Streeter, and four event man Rick Elliott. Tom Lamson will help the club in the downhill, cross country, and slalom events. Marcel Cote, who was sidelined last season with a broken leg should help in all four events, while Bob Kloester will bolster the jumping corps. Bob and Jack Beattie could develop into outstanding competitors with this year's outfit, and Norm Cummings, a freshman, may fit in nicely with Coach Sheehan's plans for the '54 campaign.

The first meet of the approaching season is the Lyndonville Meet, which will be held on January 2 and 3. This is actually a practice meet, but it will give Sheehan his first opportunity to look over the club in active competition. The season's high point will, as usual, be the Middlebury Winter Carnival meet, to be held from February 18 to 20.

One major problem facing the team will be that of transportation. In the past the team has traveled by car, but this system seems inadequate when the size of the squad is considered. It seems somewhat incongruous that a school which boasts one of the finest collegiate skiing setups in the country, the Snowbowl, cannot work out some better system for the transportation of its intercollegiate ski representatives.

LATEST COLLEGE SURVEY SHOWS LUCKIES LEAD AGAIN

Last year a survey of leading colleges throughout the country showed that smokers in those colleges preferred Luckies to any other cigarette.

This year another nation-wide survey—based on thousands of actual student interviews, and representative of all students in regular colleges—shows that Luckies lead again over all brands, regular or king size...and by a wide margin! The No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better.

Smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste, and the fact of the matter is Luckies taste better—for 2 reasons. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. And Luckies are made better to taste better. So, Be Happy—Go Lucky!

Luckies give you finer smokes,
So buy 'em by the carton—
And if you haven't tried 'em yet,
It's time you got a-startin'!
